

CURRENT ARTICLE ASSIGNMENT

Select a current article (published within the last 6 months) from a reliable newspaper source (ex. Newsweek, Plain Dealer, USA Today, Health Journals, etc...) that relates to health if you are in HLTH 1100 and WOMENS Health if you are in HLTH 2500. This assignment should be 1-2 pages typed. The review should include:

(5 points) Introduction: A brief summary of what the original article is about. What is the article's main point.

(10 points) Body: Who is affected? Why is this information interesting or important? Was a study completed? If so, was it a large or small study? Does it seem like a valid (believable) article.

(5 points) Conclusion: Did you find the information useful? Interesting? Incomplete? Original thoughts you have about the article/material. What are your predictions based upon this information?

(5 points for spelling and grammar)

Do NOT select an article that is selling a product or would be considered general information. The article should focus on recent research, recent information new statistics or new trends in health. Find an article with substance.

For on-line courses you must turn in a link to your article or scan and send me your article. I must have a copy of your article in some format.

For in class courses you must attach a copy of your article to you your paper.

Automatic one letter grade deduction for NO article.