

“Hairdressers, Hairstylists, and Cosmetologists.” Campus Explorer, www.campusexplorer.com/careers/1C4D39E2/hairdressers-hairstylists-and-cosmetologists/. Accessed 16 Apr. 2018.

The cosmetology employment is growing rapidly. Many states require a license to even practice. Cosmetology has an advantage of being self employed or renting a booth from a salon. Many cosmetologists work their own schedule. Cosmetologists are trained in cutting, coloring, styling, and trimming hair to the clients wants and needs. They are also trained to give manicures, pedicures, face treatments, and scalp treatments. Cosmetologists can also color, cut, clean, and style wigs. Some are even trained to apply makeup. Cosmetologists give advice and health tips to best fit the clients needs. Cosmetologists keep records of clients hair information, products they sell, and manages their own business if they choose. They work when they will get the most business including holidays and weekends. The work environment for cosmetologists is inviting and relaxing to benefit the client. Cosmetologists stand for a long period of time and should wear gloves and aprons to avoid chemicals. Cosmetologists must earn a license and attend a cosmetology program depending on the state. Cosmetologists continue their education throughout their career to keep up on trends. Personal appearance is important for a cosmetologist as well as cleanliness and good interpersonal skills when speaking with a client. Cosmetology programs have a course on this because it is very important to give the client what he or she asks for. This is also important in keeping clients for a larger income. Cosmetologists are required in almost every city. They could work in spas, nursing homes, and different types of salons. Anywhere they work, cosmetologists have to have their own supplies and pay taxes. Employment of cosmetologists is set to increase around 20 percent faster than most occupations. The population increase has made the cosmetology career very popular because of the hair trends and beauty services. Cosmetologists earn more money based on their education. They can also get free products if they convince clients to buy it.

“Forty four percent of hairdressers, hairstylists, and cosmetologists are self-employed while others work flexible schedules.”

“For people in this profession, some sort of licensing is required although it differs by state.”

This article is important because the arthur explained every aspect of cosmetology and what it takes to be successful. Most people are not aware of how much training it takes and how creative you must be. This article shows the importance of cosmetology by explaining how cosmetologists have to know exactly what is the best for the clients hair, skin, and nails.